A young man named Gray, of Auburn, was seriously, if not fatally injured by being thrown from a bicycle on Main street, in Lewiston. It is said Gray was riding along between the Lake Grove horse car and the sidewalk when a person darted out from the sidewalk to take the car, thus disconcerting the bicyclist and causing his fall. He was thrown over the head of the machine to the pavement, receiving a stunning blow upon the head.

The Oft Told Story Of the peculiar medicinal merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully confirmed by the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried it. Peculiar in the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, peculiar in the extreme care with which it is put up, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cares where other preparations entirely fall. Peculiar in the unequalled good name it has made at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales

Their boat struck the bayon's mouth not ten lengths ahead, and as we entered the onarrow channel "Sunny" dropped the sail. It was our salvation. The desperate amaggier sprag to the stern unheeding his hoisted sail and a heavy double-barreled gun went quickly to his shoulder. At that instant and without a warning the tempest was upon us. It cut through the trees with giant strength, it caught the hoisted sail; the jibing boom struck the smuggler with the force of a catapult, and the boat, saved from overturning by the catching of its mast among the trees, was dashed against the bank.

President Chamberlain of the Iowa Agri- da cultural College, pays this high tribute to with husiness of farming:

the business of farming:

"Farming confers health, home comforts and the privilege of attending to the training of children, instead of leaving home early in the morning and returning late at night. It Talso confers freedom from want. Few farmers ever go to the poorhouse or ask charitz. While 90 her cent. of business and the state of the sta night. It was confers freedom from want. Few farmers ever go to the poorhouse or ask charity. While 90 per cent. of business men fail, only 10 per cent. of farmers fail. Farming also gives individuality and independence of mind. The man is not confined to one narrow line of work, which seventually dwarfs the intellect, and makes him more of a machine than the machine he tends. There is independence from want and from the dictation of employers. It is the kind of life which fosters intelligence and manliness in the boys, and

The earlier hours of such as these exercises. the morning were improved in looking over the in part, at least, the farm and its stock, ful and the horticultural department and its work, and learning something of the sys-tem of work and of instruction established at in these departments.

The college has a grand good farm located in the midst of one of the best farm-cated in the midst of one of the best farming acctions of the entire State. At this time it was looking its best. The fine Challed of grass, now ready for the mower, sloping away in rich beauty in either direction from the college halis, here and there given a pleasing variety by the shade trees, now in perfection of foliage, which at intervals line the driveways, give evidence of skilful work, and also show the appreciation in which the grand New England crop is held.

Each department of the institution has bo and crop is heid.

Each department of the institution has but territory assigned and set off. The officials Experiment Station, though not a separtment of the college, is located on the lollege farm, and forty acres of land has busen set off for its use in experimental York. One hundred acres have been set off to the horticultural department, and placed in sole charge of Prof. Maynard, the Professor of Horticulture. Here Prof. Maynard carries on his orcharding, small fruit culture, gardening, Soriculture, etc., both linistrative and experimental, and on quite a large scale; and here he takes his students, and with them performs the work in all its variety while studying the laws which govern their growth, and reading by postual results the record of the experimental work going on. How can education be brought closer in contact, or be better the work into practice than as here carried on; and who can question but a student having a taste for rural affairs will have his love for it strengthened, and will be irresistably further attracted to it, rather than educated cut of and away from it, as in the other colleges of the land.
